

Safety Our conviction: Our Safety Culture is based on the belief that working together with leadership, commitment, and rigor is essential. It is founded on:

- One objective:
 - Zero serious and fatal accidents,
- One system:
 - Respect for defence barriers,
- Three axes:
 - Develop safety leadership based on trust and transparency,
 - Learn to collectively manage the unexpected in safety,
 - Focus on major risks.

We are fully committed to embodying and continuously and visibly instilling it in our employees, ensuring they embrace it while striving to improve our daily performance.

In this regard, we commit as Project Directors to conduct regular, organized, and monitored "Health and Safety" visits. These visits involve all levels of our projects, especially Team Leaders and Workers.

The objective of these visits is to allow everyone to develop or acquire the following qualities:

- Have appropriate reactions to identified deviations,
- Transparently report risk situations, near-misses, and implement appropriate corrective actions,
- Value expected behaviours and sanction deviant behaviours.

Similarly, we value transparent information reporting to better manage the unexpected and implement appropriate corrective actions.

Furthermore, we equip all levels of our organizations with the means to ensure knowledge and control of major risks.

Under all circumstances, we respect and enforce the "10 vital rules," while practicing and encouraging the use of "STOP" in the face of risk situations and the unexpected.

We are convinced that, ultimately, we will obtain from our employees a commitment to exemplarity, respect, sharing, and leadership regarding our Safety Culture